

seal, said first seal being a permanent seal and defining a liquid containing portion,

81 a writing area formed integral with said bag by joining said front and back sheets inboard of the bag perimeter in facial engagement to define said writing area, and further being isolated from said liquid containing portion and spaced from an opening defined in said bag at a top of said bag through which milk is introduced into said liquid containing portion which opening is used for attachment of said bag to the breastpump whereby, when milk is expressed into said liquid containing portion of said bag, said integral writing area which is further located at a bottom of said bag opposite from said top remains free of milk therebelow and is freely accessible for writing thereon, and a pour spout formed integral with said bag and defined by said first seal, said pour spout being [separate from an opening defined by said front and back sheets which opening is used for attachment of said bag to the breastpump] contiguous with an inboard side of said writing area.

Please add new Claim 19 as follows:

Sub 57 19. A bag for attachment to a breastmilk pump for containing breastmilk, or for otherwise receiving breastmilk, the bag when flattened defining a perimeter to the bag, comprising:

62 a thermoplastic film front sheet and a thermoplastic film back sheet, said front and back sheets being joined by a first seal, said first seal being a permanent seal and defining a liquid containing portion,